

A HARIJAN DHANA BADHA AND ORS. ETC. ETC.

STATE OF GUJARAT

APRIL 26, 1996

B [M.K. MUKHERJEE AND S.P. KURDUKAR, JJ.]

Criminal Law :

C Indian Penal Code 1860—Sections 148, 149 & 302—Rioting with deadly weapons—Common object—Two eye witnesses—All accused armed with deadly weapons—Attack resulting in the death of one person—Held, there was a common intention to commit Murder and hence all accused liable.

D Accused A1 to A11 were tried for rioting with deadly weapons and committing the murder of D in prosecution of their common object. The Trial Court acquitted eight of them and convicted A2, A6 and A7 under section 302 IPC. The Trial Court relied upon the evidence of two eye witnesses namely P.Ws. 1 & 3 and the medical evidence. The Trial Court held that the P.Ws. 1 and 3 were partly reliable and PW 8 was wholly unreliable. The Trial Court, though held that the incident occurred at the time and place alleged by the prosecution, concluded that there was no common intention and proceeded to find out the individual roles played by the accused. Two Appeals were preferred on the one hand by A2, A6 and A7 and on the other hand by the Respondent against the acquittal of A1, A3 to A5 and A8 to A10. The High Court while upholding the convictions of A2, A6 and A7 under section 302 IPC, reversed the acquittal of A1, A3 to A5 and A8. The High Court held that the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the case was patently wrong for it confused "Common Intention" with "Common Object" and applied the test of former instead of the latter. The High Court reappraised the evidence to ascertain whether the accused persons formed an unlawful assembly with the "Common Object" of committing the murder of D and concluded that the eight Appellants did share such a common object. Two sets of Appeals were filed by the accused - Appellants in this Court.

Dismissing both the Appeals, this Court

H HELD : 1 The Judgment of the Trial Court is the outcome of its failure to distinguish between common object and common intention and of giving undue importance to ignorable contradictions. Instead of deciding the case in the light of the principles of law laid down in this regard, the Trial Court decided it confining its attention to the individual acts of the accused persons only. Sukhe v. State of Rajasthan, AIR (1956) SC 513; Masalti v. State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR (1963) SC 202 and Muthu Naicker v. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR (1978) SC 1647, relied on. B

2. This Court is in complete agreement with the nature of contradiction noticed and relied upon and the comments of the High Court thereon. From the evidence of the eye witnesses P.Ws. 1 & 3, it is found that even though both of them were subjected to a lengthy cross examination nothing could be elicited by the accused persons in their favour to impair their credibility. The evidence of the above two eye witnesses unmistakably proved that the Appellants came together from the Deli of Gova Daya armed with sharp cutting weapon like Dharia pointed weapon like pic-axe and blunt weapons like sticks and pipes and started assaulting D which resulted in his instantaneous death. It is manifestly clear therefore, that their common object was to commit the murder of D. [44-B-D] C D

3. The judgment of High Court is upheld. The appellants who are on bail will surrender to their bail bonds to serve out the remaining sentence. [44-E] E

CRIMINAL APPELLATE JURISDICTION : Criminal Appeal No. 592 of 1987 Etc.

From the Judgment and Order dated 7/8.7.87 of the Gujarat High Court in CrI.A. No. 634 of 1983. F

R.N. Keshwani, N.N. Keshwani and Sanjay Kumar for the Appellants.

S.C. Patel for the Respondent. G

The Judgment of the Court was delivered by

M.K. MUKHERJEE, J. 11 persons (hereinafter referred to as A1 to A11 respectively) were tried by the Additional Sessions Judge, Gondal for H

A rioting with deadly weapons and committing the murder of Dana Pitha in prosecution of their common object. The trial Court acquitted eight of them and convicted and sentenced A2, A6 and A7 under Section 302 IPC. Against the judgment of the trial Court two appeals were preferred : one by the three convicts and the other by the State challenging the acquittal of A1, A3 to A5 and A8 to A10, but not of A11. In disposing of the appeals by the impugned judgment the High Court upheld the conviction of A2, A6 and A7 (after altering the conviction of A7 to one under Section 302/149 IPC and the acquittal of A9 and A10, but reversed the acquittal of A1, A3 to A5 and A8 and convicted them under Sections 148 and 302/149 I.P.C. Against dismissal of their appeal A2, A6 and A7 has filed one of these two appeals (Criminal Appeal No. 598 of 1987) while the other one has been filed by A1, A3 to A5 and A8, against their conviction and sentence as recorded by the High Court. Both the appeals have been heard together and this judgment will dispose of them.

D 2. Bereft of details the prosecution case is as under :

E (a) The deceased Dana Pitha hailed from village Ambardi in Gondal Taluka where all the accused also live. A month prior to the incident with which we are concerned in these appeals a quarrel took place between accused Nos. 1 and 2 and members of Dana Pitha's family in their village for which a complaint was lodged at the formers' instance with the police against Dana Pitha and his two sons.

F (b) In the morning of April 26, 1981 Dana Pitha had gone to the market place of their village while his son Ramji Dana (PW 1) along with his two brothers had gone to the field to work as labourers. Uga Lakha (PW. 3), who hails from village Machharda, had come to the house of Dana Pitha in that morning and having come to know that Dana had gone to the market went there. On their way back from the fields at or about 8.30 A.M. Ramji proceeded towards their house in the Harizan Vas to leave the shovel he was carrying and his two brothers went to the village market. While Ramji was going home he saw his father Dana and Uga Lakha also going towards their house.

H (c) For going to the house of Dana one has to go along a road which runs north to south. That road meets a lane which runs east to west and in that lane is the house of Dana. While proceeding along the road when Dana and Uga reached near the house of A10, Which is on its eastern side, A9 and A10 threw stones from the terrace of the house which hit deceased Dana. Immediately thereupon the other accused persons rushed there from the adjoining deli of Gova Daya armed with various weapons including Dharia, axe, pick-axe (Trikam), pipes and sticks and started beating Dana with their respective weapons. As a result of such beating Dana fell down dead. The accused persons then fled away.

(d) In the meantime Ramji, who had come out of their house after leaving the shovel, heard the shouts of Uga for help and rushed to the scene of occurrence. Devuben, who was sitting in the osari of her house heard her daughter, who was playing in the lane, crying and she also ran there.

(e) An information about the incident was given to the police station over phone by Uga Lakha and on receipt of the same Jamadhar Sri Shukla came to the village. He recorded the complaint of Ramji and sent it to the police station, On that complaint a case was registered and Shri V.S. Gupta, Assistant Superintendent of Police took up investigation. Shri Shukla then went to the scene of offence and prepared the inquest panchanama as also the panchanama of the scene of offence. He then recorded the statements of Devuben, Uga Lakha and other witnesses. After completion of investigation police submitted charge-sheet and in due course the case was committed to the Court of Session.

3. The accused pleaded not guilty to the charges leveled against them and contended that they had been falsely implicated.

4. The main stay of the prosecution case at the trial was the evidence of the three eye witnesses, namely Ramji (PW 1), Uga Lakha (PW 3) and Devuben (PW 8). Besides, the prosecution relied upon the medical evidence to corroborate their evidence. The trial Court found the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 partly reliable but the evidence of PW 8 wholly unreliable. On discussion of the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 and that of Dr. Vasudeva, who held the post mortem examination upon the dead body of Dana, the trial Court first held that the incident occurred at the time and place alleged by the prosecution, and that Dana met with his death owing to injuries that were inflicted on various parts of his body. The trial Court then proceeded to consider whether the accused had formed an unlawful assembly with the common intention to murder deceased Dana Pitha and in furtherance of that common intention the accused armed themselves with various deadly weapons and assaulted the deceased and caused his death."

A (emphasis supplied). After discussing the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 relating to the first part of the incident, namely, throwing of stone from the house of A10 the trial Court observed as under :

B "What is required to be established for unlawful assembly is that there must be a preconcert or pre-meditation on the part of the accused and in furtherance of that preconcert or pre-meditation they ought to have gathered armed with their weapons in order to carry out their common intention and, therefore, to accomplished their object. Here none of these ingredients are established in our case merely because if we go by the prosecution case then simply by having the number of accused gathering cannot be said to be C termed into a unlawful assembly. It is pertinent to note going by the prosecution case that neither the accused No. 9 Kala Pitha nor the accused No. 11 Pala Pitha shouted or made any sound or noise after throwing the stone on the head of the deceased Dana Pitha and as a result of that about, noise or sound the rest of the accused D gathered and then assaulted the deceased Dana Pitha to death. Therefore, in view of the circumstances I am of the opinion that the prosecution has failed to establish the unlawful assembly on the part of the accused within the meaning of Sec. 147, 148, 149 IPC and that, therefore, we will have to consider the individual act on the part of each of the accused and whether those individual acts constitute E any offence so far as each of the accused is concerned."

(emphasis supplied)

F The trial Court then undertook the task of finding out the individual roles played by the accused in the murder from the testimonies of PWs 1 and 3 and drew the following conclusion :

G ".....If the accused who are eleven in number had given the blows then there would be only 11 injuries and not 12 injuries. If the accused had given three to four blows in all as per the testimony of Uga Lakha and six to seven blows as per the testimony of Ramji Dana then the injuries on the deceased Dana Pitha have not been explained as to how he got more injuries then six to seven injuries which would have been if he would have been given six to seven H blows. This, therefore, would go to show that the presence of the accused Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 8 and 11 at the time of the incident is highly doubtful." A

In drawing the above conclusion the trial Court also commented upon the contradictions in the evidence of the two eye witnesses, one of which related to the sequential order in which the accused appeared on the scene of occurrence and the other reads as under :

".....So, looking to this part of his (PW 3) evidence we find that if we go by his evidence then Dhana Badha had given two dharia blows both on the head and face of deceased Dana Pitha when the complainant Ramji Dana says that the first blow which he saw was on the face of his father and that same person also gave the blow on the head of his father. But Ramji Dana sticks to his case that the accused Dhana Budha gave a Dharia blow on the face of his father only and not on the head of his father. So looking to this material contradiction in this evidence of the complainant Ramji Dana it appears that the complainant Ramji Dana is confused as to who gave the dharia blow on the face of his father and he is not able to know as to the person who actually gave the dharia blow on his father, because, if we go by his case, then surely, the accused No. 1 has not given the dharia blow on the head of his father, whereas, the complainant has said that two dharia blows were given on his father, one on the head and one on the face and later on he resiled from his statement by saying that only one dharia blow was given. Thus from this it is difficult to believe that the dharia blow was given by the accused No.1 Dhana Badha." B C D E

The trial Court, however, found the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 trustworthy so far as they testified about the roles of A2, A6 and A7 in the murder and convicted and sentenced them as indicated earlier. F

In its judgment the High Court first observed that the entire approach of the trial Court in dealing with the case was patently wrong for it confused "common intention" with "common object" and applied the test of former instead of the latter. In making the above comment the High Court relied upon the decisions of this Court in Sukhe v. State of Rajasthan, AIR (1956) SC 513, Masalti v. State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR (1965) SC 202 and Muthu Naicker v. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR (1978) SC 1647. The High Court next referred to the evidence of PW 8 to point out that the finding of the trial Court that she was not reliable witness was not a proper one. G H

A In criticising the observation of the trial Court that the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 contradicted each other as to sequence of the surfacing of the accused persons on the scene the High Court observed :

B "The incident happened in quick sequence and, therefore merely because there is some contradiction between the witnesses about Bechar and Jetha coming to the scene of offence in a particular sequence, that by itself is not sufficient to discard the evidence and hold that presence of accused Nos. 3, 4, 5, 8 and 11 was doubtful. The reasoning adopted and conclusion arrived at by the learned trial Judge is perverse."

C As regards the other comment of the trial Court, regarding contradictions in the evidence of PWs 1 and 3 (quoted earlier) the High Court had this to say :

D "This appreciation of the evidence of complainant Ramji relating to the injuries caused by Dhana Badha is mis-reading of evidence and is nothing but perverse. Ramji has clearly state that Dharia blow was inflicted by accused No. 1 Dhana Badha on the face of his father. Merely because at one stage he stated that injury was caused on the head and immediately corrected himself is not by itself sufficient to discard his evidence. Medical evidence on the point is very clear. Dr. Vasadava (Ex. 32) has stated that incised wound was on the left side of the forehead and a punctured wound was in between the eye brows. Another punctured wound was on the left side mandible region, and incised wound could have been caused by Dharia and punctured wound could have been caused by the pointed edge of Dharia."

F
G After pointing out the above perversities in the judgment of the trial Court the High Court reappraised the evidence to ascertain whether the accused persons formed an unlawful assembly with the "common object" of committing the murder of Dana and concluded that the eight appellants did share such a common object.

H Having carefully perused the prolix judgments of the Trial Court and the High Court (they run through 93 and 99 pages respectively) in the light of the evidence on record we do not find any merit in these appeals. We hasten to add that in drawing our above conclusion we have left out of our consideration the evidence of PW 8 as, in our opinion, the reasons given by the trial Court for discarding the same cannot be said to be proper. Before, however, we proceed to consider the evidence of these two witnesses we may point out that the judgment of the trial Court is the outcome of its failure to distinguish between common object and common intention and of giving undue importance to ignorable contradictions. In the case of Masalti (supra) to which, as noticed earlier, the High Court has made a pointed reference this Court has in no uncertain terms laid down the principle to be applied in dealing with a case of rioting and commission of offence in furtherance of common object of an unlawful assembly with the following words :

"The crucial question to determine in such a case is whether the assembly consisted of five or more persons and whether the said persons entertained one or more of the common objects as specified by Section 141. While determining this question, it becomes relevant to consider whether the assembly consisted of some persons who were merely passive witnesses and had joined the assembly as a matter of idle curiosity without intending to entertain the common object of the assembly it would not be correct to say that before a person is held to be a member of an unlawful assembly, it must be shown that he had committed some illegal overt act or had been guilty of some illegal omission in pursuance of the common object of the assembly. In fact S. 149 makes it clear that if an offence is committed by any member of an unlawful assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of that assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object, every person who, at the time of the committing of that offence is a member of the same assembly, is guilty of that offence, and that emphatically brings out the principle that the punishment prescribed by S. 149 is in a sense vicarious and does not always proceed on the basis that the offence has been actually committed by every member of an unlawful assembly."

Instead of deciding the case in the light of the above principles of law, which it was required to do, the trial Court decided it confining its attention to the individual acts of the accused persons only. As regards the other

A infirmity in the judgment of the trial Court, which we have mentioned earlier, we can only refer to the nature of contradiction noticed and relied upon by it (quoted earlier); and the comments of the High Court thereon (quoted earlier), with which we are in complete agreement.

B That brings us to the evidence of P.Ws. 1 and 3 who narrated the entire prosecution case. Of the above two witnesses P.W. 3 unquestionably is an independent witness and his evidence alongwith that of P.W. 1, is cogent and consistent. On perusal of their evidence we find that even though both of them was subjected to a lengthy cross-examination nothing could be elicited by the accused persons in their favour to impair their
C credibility. Their evidence also gets ample corroboration from that of the doctor who held autopsy and found as many as 12 injuries on the person of the deceased, including incised and punctured wounds. Besides, he found fracture of the skull bones. The evidence of the above two eye-witnesses unmistakably proves that the appellants came together from the deli
D of Gova Daya armed with sharp cutting weapons like Dharia, pointed weapon like pic-axe and blunt weapons like sticks and pipes and started assaulting Dana, which resulted in his instantaneous death. It is manifestly clear therefore that their common object was to commit the murder of Dana. Their evidence further indicates that the accused A6 inflicted 2/3
E blows on the neck and A2 gave blows on the head which proved fatal. Such being the state of evidence obtaining on record we find no hesitation in upholding the judgment of the High Court and dismissing both these appeals. The appellants, who are on bail, will now surrender to their bail bonds to serve out the remainder of the sentence.

V.M.

Appeals dismissed.
